The European Union Intellectual Property Office (EUIPO) is organising a selection procedure in order to constitute a reserve list from which to fill vacant posts of Emerging Technologies Officer. The ensuing reserve list will be used progressively for recruitment in different departments depending on the EUIPO's needs.

1. BACKGROUND

With over 30 years of experience, the European Union Intellectual Property Office (EUIPO) is an independent, self-financed, non-profit European Union (EU) agency entrusted with granting unitary intellectual property rights (IPR), including EU trade marks, designs and geographical indications (GIs) for craft and industrial products.

Together with the intellectual property (IP) offices of the EU Member States, gathered in the European Union Intellectual Property Network, the EUIPO plays a key role within the European IP and innovation ecosystem. Recognised as one of the most technologically advanced and innovative organisations in the world of IP, the EUIPO is a leading organisation, committed to continuous innovation by integrating data-driven solutions and adopting cutting-edge technologies. Its efforts aim to streamline high-value IP services to citizens and businesses in an efficient and effective manner.

The EUIPO has fully embraced new IP trends in terms of globalisation and emerging importance of enforcement. Since 2013, the Office is responsible for IP research, communication, knowledge sharing and cooperation with enforcement authorities, covering all IPRs, via the European Observatory on Infringements of IP Rights (the Observatory).

The EUIPO does not operate solely in Europe: it has expanded its reach across all five continents and is implementing EU projects on IP in China, Southeast Asia, Latin America, the Caribbean and Africa, reflecting its commitment to global IP excellence.

Located in Alicante, the EUIPO boasts a privileged seafront campus where staff enjoy world-class facilities, including catering services, sports amenities, and more. Alicante is a vibrant, well-connected city, featuring high-speed train connections and Spain's 5th largest airport, ensuring seamless travel possibilities. The Office operates in a dynamic, multilingual environment, with English, French, German, Italian and Spanish as its working languages, reflecting its international scope. In addition, the city is also home to a European School offering four language sections (English, French, German and Spanish) making it an ideal destination for professionals and their families.

Since 2008, the Office is engaged to reducing its environmental impact through extensive initiatives. Dedication to sustainability is a core aspect of our operations, reinforcing our broader commitment to social responsibility.

The EUIPO is an equal opportunities employer, committed to building a diverse and culturally inclusive workplace. As part of our Equal Opportunities Programme, we seek diverse talent from all backgrounds to join our teams, and we encourage our staff to bring their authentic selves to work. We therefore encourage applications from all qualified candidates, irrespective of gender, age, nationality, disability, race, sexual orientation, ethnicity, beliefs, or other characteristics.

Join the EUIPO, where professional opportunities and quality of life converge, and be part of an organisation that is shaping the future of IP.

- resilience: remain effective under work pressure, be flexible and adapt to a changing work environment;
- leadership: lead and manage people and teams to achieve results.

5. INTERVIEWS AND TESTS

Pre-selection

Admissible candidates whose applications rank among the best qualified in accordance with the selection criteria detailed under point 4, may be contacted in order to verify their language skills (in particular, spoken production in English), as well as to prove their university degree and/or other skills, knowledge and competencies. This pre-selection contact does not entitle candidates to be invited for interview: it is a step in selecting the most suitable candidates to be invited for the afore mentioned phase.

Interview

Interviews will be conducted virtually and, given the nature of the duties, will be carried out in English. Other relevant languages as declared in the candidate's application/CV may be assessed in accordance with the levels indicated in this vacancy notice.

The interview will test the candidate's motivation, suitability and knowledge of matters relating to the duties to be performed and the selection criteria established in the vacancy notice (technical knowledge and behavioural competencies).

Test(s)

One or several tests will complete the assessment of one or several of the above aspects. Candidates called for the interview and test phase, which will be held remotely, will receive detailed information with the invitation. As regards the test, this will comprise a specific privacy statement, guidelines on online assessment as well as a user guide from the respective remote testing solution provider³, detailing all necessary preparatory actions to take into account by invited candidates prior to an exam. The remote online test will be delivered via an application to be downloaded and installed by candidates. For the exam to be completed, candidates must have administrator rights on their PCs in order to disable the firewall/antivirus for which reason it is highly recommended for candidates to use a personal device, and to avoid using corporate computers/laptops, complying with minimum technical requirements as specified in the user guide provided by the remote testing solution provider along with the invitation to the exam. Invigilation is done through an automatic algorithm and pictures/recordings of the candidates during the test which are reviewed and analysed after the exam by human proctors.
